THE title of Ell Island will probably have no page reserved for it in the next edition of the school text books, but it will live long in the memory of the high school boys of Melrose and the Ice Company which has just been forced into a trace by the heavy snow fall.

The Fells Ice Company claims to have the right to cut all the ice on the pond at Melrose, and the town of Melrose, who say half of it is city property, have knowledge of the city's title to the land around three sides closed a small town. The city has a right to cut the ice. They claim that the ice company finding the ice twice the usual thickness decided to cut it in the middle of the pond and to house with one harvest instead of two. And then the ice company's team-

Double ES stamps every morning

Thousands of people who patronize this progressive store year after year fully realize how profitable it is to trade at GILCHRIST'S; for in connection with securing reliable merchandise at lowest possible prices, we give "LEGAL STAMPS" with every purchase of ten cents and over and double "LEGAL STAMPS" forenoons.

The advantage of "LEGAL STAMPS" is obvious to the most casual observer: They are thoroughly reliable—owned and controlled by Boston merchants—A Massachusetts Corporation.

Local Applications Avail Nothing

A Fair and Fairless Complexion Is Gained Only by Purifying the Blood.

A Trial Package of Stuart's Calcium Water Seal Free.

The best and easily procurable colors of the face are those which Nature herself paints thereon, not on the surface of the skin, but down underneath the cuticle, and which can be supplied only by a strong current of pure, rich, red blood constantly flowing through the capillaries or superficial blood vessels, in such a way as to maintain a perfect condition of the skin. With the pores entirely unclogged by foreign or effete matter of any kind.

It is impossible to estimate the number of dollars yearly wasted through the vain and foolish attempts of people to rid their faces of pimples, blotches, blackheads, and other facial blemishes, by using active, irritating lotions, cold creams, etc., to any purpose, as the widespread use of facial massage, both manual and electrical, by which they attempt to coax the skin and irregularly flowing blood to the cheeks, in order to give them a rosy and healthy appearance, and although by such methods they may succeed in drawing the blood there temporarily, they cannot keep it there permanently, as only Nature can do that, and in half an hour or so later the massed cheeks are as pallid as before.

The "skin food" fallacy is another one of the many foolish fads of the day. The skin has no more power of absorption than a rubber coat, and is simply an "envelope" over the muscular system for the protection of the body, and is intended to keep the heat out, not to admit anything. The epidermis, or outer skin, is constantly peeling off. The epithelial cells drop away, carrying with them the skin which has been applied to the skin. The skin cannot be fed from the outside, and nothing of a nutritive nature and money spent on so-called "skin foods" are simply wasted, for each treatment is contrary to Nature and the skin. Like every other organ of the body, must receive its nutriment from the inside.

If your complexion is full of pimples, blackheads, "four spots," blotches, don't waste time on local treatment, but purify the blood thoroughly, and these blemishes will quickly disappear.

STUART'S CALCIUM WATER is getting excellent results in curing all skin and blood diseases, and not only do they rid the blood of all impurities, but also build it up and strengthen and increase the blood, thus purifying the cheeks, rosy, ruminating, pale, and wrinkles, and causing the whole countenance to fairly beam with superb health.

Secure a box of this blood-purifying and complexion-clearing water for face and make your skin smooth, rosy and free from blemishes and wrinkles. Also forward your name and address to the F. A. Stuart Company, 173 Stuart Bldg., Marshall, Mich., for free sample package.

I OFFER FREE TREATMENT To Victims of These Diseases

You Can Cure Yourself at Home With It—I Will Send It to Your Address Without a Penny of Charge.
Don't Turn This Page; Don't Doubt, But Read What I Have To Say!
Are You One of the 60 Per Cent?

In arranging with the American for this page announcement, I felt sure of the attention of sixty per cent of its readers—and that means thousands of people. According to official statistics, 60 out of every 100 persons of both sexes have either kidney, bladder or rheumatic disease, and according to my practice—for these diseases are my specialty—I should say that the percentage is even greater than sixty. These people should be interested in what I have to say and to offer. They ought to read every word on this page and then act on the suggestions it contains.

If you have any form of uric acid trouble, such as kidney, bladder or rheumatic disease, I can be of great help to you. You may have suffered for years; either with your local doctor or with drug store remedies, or with both, and yet you need me, for the cure of these diseases has been my life work. I have something that is new to you, something different, a combination of remedies that have proven their worth.

All I ask of any sufferer is that he or she make a trial of my method of treatment. And this trial will cost you nothing. Surely you cannot read it on this basis. Whether your case is of recent origin, or even if you are tired of doctors, even if you think your case is hopeless, I urge you to try just once again. Write me a description of how you suffer or fill out the coupon, and I will send you a free trial treatment. I have done this favor to thousands of people in all parts of the country, and the letters of praise I receive show the good work I am doing.

I am asking you for no money—the free treatment is free. And wherever else I say free I mean free, for I want to prevent the columns of the American. I offer to send you or any afflicted reader of this paper a free trial treatment. All I ask of you is that you use this free treatment as directed—and the directions are very simple. I will stand or fall on what this free treatment does in YOUR case.

It is through this free trial treatment that I am able to introduce my unique method of treating kidney, bladder and rheumatic diseases. Who can complain when no money is asked? I do not even ask more of you than it takes to fill out the Free Certificate. If I asked you for money before treating you, as other doctors do, you might have reason to hesitate, especially if you have spent much time and money in trying to find a cure. But I am asking you for no money. Surely that ought to appeal to the most skeptical readers of the American, and certainly to all the fair-minded.

My proposition is simply this: To you or to any other sufferer from kidney, bladder or rheumatic disease, I offer to send, direct to the home, a free trial treatment with directions so that you can cure yourself at home. I ask nothing of you beyond a description of your case in the form of a letter, or the coupon properly filled out. I will send you a letter or the coupon and you will promptly receive the free treatment. I am an specialist in these diseases and have made them my life work. My intention is to prove my financial reliability and to prove my worth, and to show you, an reply upon having been guaranteed to the Government as to their purity. Let me hear from you today.

NEW YORK AUTO SHOW WAS DISTINCT RECORD BREAKER

Did Great Amount of Educational Good, While Huge Lot of Business Was Transacted.

By J. O. KERRISON.

NEW YORK, Jan. 12. The motor show of the American Federation of Automobile Manufacturers, which opened at the Waldorf-Astoria hotel at noon yesterday, has been a distinct record breaker. It was a fair exhibition in more ways than one. It was a fair exhibition in the sense that it was a fair representation of the industry. It was a fair exhibition in the sense that it was a fair representation of the industry. It was a fair exhibition in the sense that it was a fair representation of the industry.

Here Are the Reasons Why E-M-F Company Cars Give Buyers Better Value Than Other Makers

E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" automobiles are manufactured in two mammoth plants owned by the E-M-F Company and directed by the one head—not asembled from parts made in small plants all over the country.

Here all intermediate parts makers' profits are eliminated. From the pig iron and the raw steel plate to the finished automobile, including body and even tops and storm fronts, every part save only magnetos and tires are manufactured in our own plants and under the watchful eye of the head of this concern.

To give an idea of the magnitude of these operations is well nigh impossible. Words will not suffice and figures such as one million and a half square feet of floor space convey little to the average mind. Try to do it to comprehend. The accompanying photographic reproductions give but a faint idea, though they convey more than mere word descriptions.

If you ever have an opportunity to visit these plants it will be well worth your while and will be a revelation to you. You are cordially invited to do so.

Only those who have enjoyed a tour of these tremendous factories, gathering in the foundries where cylinder castings, crankshafts and gear housings are made; in the shops where the top for the department—some of them—in this country and one of the most complete for the front end of a trunk shaft complete in one operation; and the precision through the mammoth rooms full of automatic machines where operation has something almost weird in it to one unaccustomed to seeing these wonderful machines that seem to think, think through the various departments where component parts are machined, ground, treated, and finally the great assembling rooms.

To see the raw material go in at one end and the finished car with polished body and shining brass come out at the other end is a sight that fills the visitor with wonder and admiration. And his greatest wonder is occasioned by the fineness of the work which he sees and which he learns is necessary in order to turn out cars at the rate we do. Absolute accuracy—absolute interchangeability—are essential.

Location of the superior equipment; the financial resources; the splendid organization; the wealth of experience; the engineering skill; the ability to buy materials at prices smaller makers cannot touch; and finally, producing in tremendous quantities by the most up-to-date automobile machinery—making every part in the one plant and each plant devoted to the manufacture of but one chassis model—the E-M-F Company can produce a better automobile than is possible to any other concern in the world at anywhere near the price.

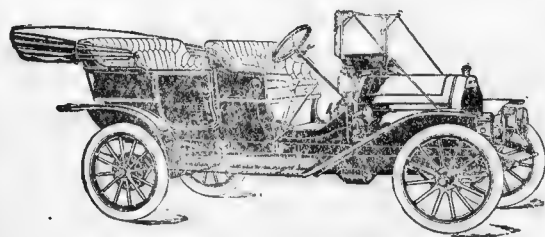

Here are a few figures that give an inkling of the volume of material that pass through these two plants:

Plant No. 1 produces 10 E-M-F "30" cars every working day and produces all up its working time. Annual output 15,000 E-M-F "30" cars.

Plant No. 2 has a daily capacity of 125 Flanders "20" cars and produces in the next twelve months 25,000 cars. Deliveries begin in part of this month.

These two plants consume 25,000 tons of steel per annum; 75 tons of aluminum; 740 pneumatic tires per day; 160,000 spark plugs per annum; 5,000 the blanks and cut 270,000 steel bevel gears per year; 230,000 steel spur gears and 10,000 spiral gears. Foundry makes 55 cylinder castings. Flanders "20" four cylinders are cast en bloc. They use 2,000 gallons of gasoline and 185 gallons cylinder oil per day. Six railroad cars are necessary to ship each day's output. Over $2,000 per month is paid for materials alone—exclusive of labor or other things. Over 12,500 men are directly and indirectly employed in the manufacture of E-M-F "30" and Flanders "20" cars.

Annual revenue for cars and equipment, over forty millions of dollars ($40,000,000). The maker E-M-F Company the largest individual manufacturer in the Licensed Association of Automobile Manufacturers, which is to say largest in the world.

ourselves, we do believe that none other can outdo this company in integrity and fair treatment of its patrons—not only fair, but liberal.

If you will enquire of the next Detroit man you meet, he will tell you that the E. M. F. Company was financed and is managed entirely by Detroit men. More than that, he will tell you that these men are the leaders in Detroit financial and commercial affairs. None stand higher in this community. Following are the principal owners and directors of the E. M. F. Company:

DR. J. B. BOOK, Director Wayne County Savings Bank; Director First National Bank of Detroit; Director Anderson Carriage Company, manufacturers Anderson Electric Automobile; also Director Quincy Electric & Gas Heating Co., of Quincy, Illinois. Dr. Book was Vice President of the Wayne Automobile Company, which concern was absorbed at time of organization of E-M-F Company.

WILLIAM T. BARBOUR, President Detroit Stove Works; Director People's State Bank; Director Home Telephone Company; Director Detroit Manufacturers' Railroad. Also member Advisory Committee of the Security Trust Company.

CHARLES L. PALMS, Treasurer E. M. F. Company; Director Michigan Stove Works, oldest and largest in the world, making more than 100,000 Garland Stoves and ranges per annum; Director First National Bank; Director Union Trust Company; Director Detroit Journal Company.

WALTER E. FLANDERS, President and General Manager of the E. M. F. Company, is too well known as a promoter of automobiles to need further introduction here.

These are the men who manufacture E-M F "30" and Henders "20" Automobiles—these are the men who stand behind every promise made in our advertisements—these are the men who go with the car when you buy it. And, of course, E-M F "30" and Henders "20" are both licensed under the Seiden patent.

BISHOP LAWRENCE'S GREAT ADDRESS, "HAS THE CHURCH FAILED?" CAUSES REPLY AND WIDESPREAD COMMENT

Head of the Episcopal Church in Massachusetts

Boston Pilot Makes Answer to the Episcopal Leader's Comment Upon the Tribute Paid to King Leopold by the Prelates of Belgium.

BISHOP WILLIAM LAWRENCE, head of the great Episcopal Diocese of Massachusetts, in a recent address took up the question, "Has the Church Failed?" This address, which was delivered at Ford Hall, was undoubtedly brought forth by the frequent discussion in and out of the pulpit of the future of the church over which he presides to attract as large congregations as Sunday services as in the past. Bishop Lawrence's address was a very interesting one, and it was well received by his hearers. He spoke of the church's failure in the past, and he spoke of the church's future. He spoke of the church's failure in the past, and he spoke of the church's future.

Bishop Lawrence's Address, 'Has the Church Failed?'

THE church stands for the world, and it is the duty of the church to be a light to the world. The church is the body of Christ, and it is the duty of the church to be a light to the world. The church is the body of Christ, and it is the duty of the church to be a light to the world. The church is the body of Christ, and it is the duty of the church to be a light to the world. The church is the body of Christ, and it is the duty of the church to be a light to the world. The church is the body of Christ, and it is the duty of the church to be a light to the world.

It is the duty of the church to be a light to the world. The church is the body of Christ, and it is the duty of the church to be a light to the world. ## Refuse "Substitutes"

When you feel an attack of grip coming on or are doubled up with some sudden cramp—that is no time to risk comfort and health with a cheap, worthless or even dangerous imitation of Sanford's Ginger, you want the real thing. Get a bottle of Sanford's to-day. Remember that it is your stomach that takes it and not the dealer's, so refuse if he offers you some humbug "substitute"

For Sanford's Ginger

Forty years the standard household remedy for cramps, pains, colds, chills and grip; aids digestion, quiets the nerves, warms the extremities and promotes natural, refreshing sleep.

BUILDINGS EXPRESS THE LIFE OF TOWNS

Noted English Daily Makes Probable Statement to Affect U. S.

The English daily, the Times, in its issue of the 11th inst., makes a statement regarding the probable future of the building industry in the United States. The statement is based on the fact that the building industry in the United States is showing a marked improvement in the past few months, and the Times is optimistic regarding the future in the city and suburbs.

Most Important Duty.

The most important duty of the architect is to study the town, its life, the people and their requirements, before attempting to put his own ideas into effect. As he does this, he will find that the requirements of the town are the most important factor in the design of the building.

Points Out Difference.

There is a difference between the old and the new building industry. The old building industry was based on the fact that the building was a permanent structure, and the new building industry is based on the fact that the building is a temporary structure.

THANK NATHAN MATTHEWS.

Real Estate Exchange Sends Out Abstract of Realty Argument.

He Won't Be Bought Off; He Can't Be Fought Off

By Herbert Kaufman

(Copyright, 1910, by Herbert Kaufman.)

He'll thrive so long as he's alive. He doesn't bother because others say that he's a "dead one." He knows that while he can hear it, the coroner's verdict can't possibly be true.

The length of his fight is the limit of his faith. It takes more than one hit to make him quit. He's never bankrupt until he has checked out his last balance of strength.

He plays his game through to the very finish—takes advantage of every delay—gives himself the benefit of each doubt, and persists, even in the interval between the approach and the arrival of the end.

He's the man who from the beginning of time has proved to the world that "IT CAN BE DONE." He's the most terrific force in humanity—the dogged, smiling Soldier of Hope. He stands on the firing line until his cartridge belt is empty, then digs his heels in the turf—clubs his gun, and prepares for the hand-to-hand encounter.

You can hurl him away, but you can't possibly keep him away. You check him, but he'll come back and come back until you wreck him. He keeps trying until he starts dying. And then the time spent at the florist's deliberating between a crown of immortelles or a wreath of lilies is pretty sure to be wasted.

His will is made of whalebone. It has snap, but won't snap. Bend it as much as you please, but watch out for the rebound.

He can't fail; his spirit is guarded by a burglar-proof combination of resolution.

When the storms drive him upon the rocks, he builds a raft out of the salvage and floats away, with confidence for his compass, and always finds the shore.

There's a sixty-horse power courage back of his ambition. He's a battering-ram of purpose—ready to crash against any opposition.

He isn't impressed by the barriers of precedent, but lunges straight at them, and proves that half the obstructions which blocked those who came before him, were mere strips of fancy, painted by imagination into the semblance of walls.

He isn't guided by the losses of others, and thereby shows how many quitters attempted exactly the same things.

He escapes the consequences which would overtake a coward, because he doesn't shrink from them. Consequences, like all other bullies, take advantage of the weakling.

Instead of nerves, he's strung with nerve, and his soul is a wholesome thing—wherein, lies the secret of his power.

He won't be bought off; he can't be fought off. Back of him is something stronger than any trial ahead. His honor is a talisman which keeps him clean and resistless.

There's a strange flaw in his hearing—his ear cannot detect the note of discouragement; so his ideals become ideas and not fancies; and his dreams change to blue prints from which he builds reality.

THE picture of this exquisitely decorated set of dishes, although reproduced from a photograph, can give no conception or idea of its beauty. It is impossible to reproduce in a picture the dainty and elegant decorations, the thinness of the ware, the richness of the glaze, the artistic models and patterns of the pieces. We guarantee absolutely that the workmanship, decoration and finish of our sets are equal in every respect to the very highest priced Haviland, Limoges or English imported china.

The decorations on these sets consist of garlands of roses. The effect is both novel and attractive, yet dainty and conservative.

You Must See These Dishes for Yourself to Appreciate Them

Premium Department, Boston American

272-274 Devonshire Street

THE uses, buds and terms on the dishes are shown in their natural colors, and all the splendor, glory and beauty of the original natural coloring are brought out.

A useful, practical set for every day use, consisting of the following pieces: Six large plates, 6 tea plates, 6 soup plates, 6 dessert dishes, 6 cups, 6 saucers, 6 individual butter dishes, 1 large meat platter, 1 oval vegetable dish.

Any reader of the Boston American can secure this splendid dinner service, packed carefully in a wooden box, for Thirty Household Coupons of consecutive dates and $2.00; or $2.25 delivered by wagon or express. Retail value $6.50.

THE end of each season finds mills and factories with thousands of yards of cloths and hundreds of dozens of garments, caused by over-production, countermanded orders. The past month we have been through all the big manufacturing centers of New England, New York State and Pennsylvania, selecting the best of these lots. Three things were required from each mill and factory:

1st—The Goods Must Be This Season's Make.

2d—The Price Must Be, at Most, but One-Half the Usual Selling Figure.

3d—The Goods Must Be First Class in Every Particular.

Mill Overproduction of Hosiery For Men, Women and Children

WHAT THE MAKER SAID: "Here are hundreds of dozens of hose (some slightly imperfect) that were made for this season's selling. You take the entire lot and I will make the price 50 per cent less than regular." Monday they go on sale HERE at half the regular retail price.

DON'T FOLLOW an ILLUSION

TEDIOUS it is to plod along in what seems to be the same old way, getting ahead only a little at a time, sometimes so slowly that your progress is barely discernible. Like the Arab in the cartoon, the way that most of us are compelled to go seems dreary and monotonous.

We know, of course, that there is a goal ahead that can be attained by hard work. But our goal, like the oasis which lies before the desert traveler, seems far ahead, and all about us lie pleasing illusions, plans and schemes that allure our eyes, but which are really as deceptive as the city the Arab sees in mirage.

Illusions are strewn along every pathway of life, and most of the wrecks men make of their careers are caused by following them.

Travellers on the Sahara desert have often found the grim skeletons of camels and their riders—the remains of whole caravans that have been led astray by promising mirages which a prank of light has painted on the sky. You can well imagine the suffering from heat and thirst, the buffeting by sandstorms of these misguided travellers when the city that appeared so enticingly has suddenly faded from the horizon, and left only hot, dreary desert stretching ahead.

Then the end came as they perished, one by one, riders subsisting on the faithful camels till the last bone was picked clean.

Then all were buried beneath the drifting this money mirage, turn from the sure path that leads to happiness and plunge madly into the struggle for money.

And when old before their time, worn out and cynical, they gather together the money for that journey to fancied happiness, they find that it is no more there than is the mirage of the desert.

It was a golden dream, built up in their imaginations by the false ideals of others, but the awakening brought utter misery.

How many men do you know who are continually turning from one thing to another, all ways dissatisfied with their own occupations and envying those of their neighbors?

If you have lived in the country you have seen boys picking blackberries. One works steadily at the bush nearest his hand until he has stripped it, then repeats the operation with the next.

Most of the others gather a few berries from one bush, then, attracted by thicker clusters on another, move to that, and so proceed, skimming here and there, till at the end of the day's work they have moved over the whole field and gathered about a tenth as many berries as the plodding, careful harvester.

It is a homely illustration, but it is only a repetition, on a small scale, of the whole comedy of life.

A boy begins an apprenticeship as a carpenter, dislikes it because the work is hard, and tries painting. Some one tells him that he continues to study his business and save a few wages.

They assure him that if he is to have any position he must get a "white collar job," but he buys new tools and learns how to use them.

When he is master of his trade and getting good wages in an honorable business his ambition prompts him to go ahead—not in another calling, but in the one he has learned.

sands, and none could know of their fate till the winds again uncovered them and exposed their bones to the gaze of other voyagers of the desert.

There are deserts to cross in every existence, dreary expanses of dullness that must be bridged before we may reach the oasis called competence, and can spend our fading years in comfort and peace.

And while we cross them the mirages of life loom constantly ahead, inviting us to leave the course that we know is safe and sure and take a short cut to some fancied haven, which when we seek it is never there.

Nothing can be more important to a young man, or a young woman than the courage to stick to the sure way and the self-control to shut the eyes to foolish hopes, founded upon nothing, and sure to lead to disaster and ruin.

In a time when wealth is evident on every hand, when the newspapers widely circulate the doings of its possessors, when the very rich travel from place to place, building themselves palaces, travelling in yachts and private cars, everywhere spending money lavishly and upon all manner of extravagances, the dangerous illusion is created that great wealth is the only thing worth having—that life is not worth the living without it.

And so thousands of young men, beholding painting is an unhealthy business, and he shifts to blacksmithing. But as a blacksmith he must continually mend fires and swing hammers while the blacksmith does all the interesting work; so he becomes a bricklayer's apprentice. That means carrying the hod, for which few men are fitted physically. So he decides that hard work will never get him anywhere, and hires himself as a clerk.

But clerking, too, is irksome, and his twenty-first year finds him studying a little stenography, and trying with half an education to follow a business that requires a trained hand and eye and a good schooling to begin with.

He quits stenography, and tries a dozen other occupations. Led away from each of these by the illusion that he can do better at another, he finds himself at thirty a failure, compelled to do any work he can find, without trade or calling; always the last man to get a situation when they are plentiful, always the first man to be turned aside when employers are driven to economy.

The other sort of boy—the boy who had been a blackberry picker would have picked his bushes clean, also begins life as a carpenter.

But he is not ashamed or afraid of hard work. His friends tell him that working for wages will never bring him a competence, but architecture, if possible works his way through a technical school, and at thirty you are likely to find him with an office and a good business and a certain income for the rest of his life.

When tired and troubled with your slow progress you are suddenly confronted with some illusion, sit down and think about it before you leave the course you have mapped out for yourself and follow frantically after it.

Perhaps some glib-tongued "business man" offers you a brilliant chance for investment—an opportunity of a lifetime, he will call it, to get in on the ground floor.

It looks inviting, for your acquaintance knows how to build illusions. It is his trade, and the trade of hundreds of other men who make their living from the gullibility of their fellows.

But consider carefully just what it will mean to you, who perhaps know one business, to put your money into another of which you know nothing.

You cannot follow it to see what is being done with it. You cannot know that it is in safe or even skilled hands.

Put it into your own business, and it will be under your care. Put it into your own education, and it will help you to build up a skill and understanding that will mean money and contentment in the future.

But look out for the get-rich-quick illusion and the man who places it before your eyes, for that particular illusion has wrecked thousands of men, and it can carry you to ruin as swiftly as it did them.

There is no fixed calling that a man can follow in which there is not a future. It is, of course, easy to get into a rut; and often through no fault of his own a man is pocketed where he can go no further.

But he can get out of his pocket by exerting himself.

Supposing when young he sets up as a merchant in a little town, believing and trusting that some day the town will be a great city. But circumstances put the town on a side track, and it refuses to grow.

The dull man would stay in the same old town and do business in the same old way. The live man would hold to his course toward progress, get his stock together, set it up in the nearest good town and continue on his way toward success.

The man who begins life as a blacksmith can, after he masters blacksmithing, become a mechanical engineer. It will take hard work, but there are many who have done it.

The Sure Way Is Often the Slowest Way, and Patience Is Necessary to All Actual Progress.

One of the eminent sanitary engineers in a great city got his first job as a plumber's apprentice. His learned sanitary engineering from the ground up. To-day he designs sewage systems for cities and great estates, and earns nearly as much money as the President of the United States.

And, better than the money that he earns, is his knowledge that by his plans he has held back the ravages of disease in many places and without doubt literally saved thousands of lives.

No man leaps to success or competence. We need not worry about inherited money. It isn't earned, it is soon run, and doesn't count.

But real going ahead depends on a man's own values and the right of purpose.

Let him follow every golden illusion that he sees, and he will amount to about as much as the average loafer who works only enough to earn an occasional meal.

But let him fix his purpose and stick to it, no matter how bright seem the opportunities for change, and he will live a life that is useful and honorable, and dying, leave the world better because he lived in it.

authorities on some ground, which it is difficult to imagine.

Before Anna Gould married the Prince de Sagan it is understood that she endeavored to obtain an ecclesiastical annulment of her first marriage in order that the Prince might marry her in his own Church and retain his standing there, but she was unsuccessful. Boni opposed the granting of this annulment very vigorously. The Prince and the divorced Countess de Castellane were forced to marry in a Protestant church, and the Prince was practically if not actually excommunicated from his own.

Although the prospect does not appear encouraging, it is known that Count Boni is seeking religious annulment of his first marriage. As he opposed the efforts of his wife to obtain such an annulment, it is hard to see why the same arguments would not apply to him. The question, however, is an intricate one, and there is room for uncertainty.

Miss Mabel Gerry would appear to be taking a very great risk if she accepted Boni de Castellane. He has a record as the worst husband in Parisian society, which is saying a good deal. But it must be remembered that he has been chastened and held up to scorn and ridicule. He has learned that he cannot do as he pleases with an American heiress, however indulgent. It is therefore hardly likely that he would behave as badly the second time as the first.

Then Miss Mabel Gerry is a young woman of mature years and firm character. Boni would not find her an easy victim if he attempted to practice deception and wicked extravagance.

As an heiress Miss Gerry is one of the most attractive in New York. She is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Elbridge T. Gerry. With her sister and two brothers she will divide a fortune of many millions of New York real estate inherited from the Gerry and Goelet families. Her brother Robert is married to the daughter of the late E. H. Harriman, and that means a family connection that must be very attractive to a foreign nobleman.

If Boni fails to obtain the desired annulment from the Church he may as a last resort follow the example of his cousin, the Prince de Sagan, and become a Protestant. The Count de Castellane does not want to break with his own Church. It is more distinguished, more elegant for a member of an old French family to cling to the faith of his fathers, in aspect at least, for to Count Boni religion can be little but a form.

It is understood that he has planned to take some decisive step by the first of May, when he will come to be a member of the Chamber of Deputies. He will then be greatly in need of a fresh supply of money.

Miss Gerry has been doing an immense amount of shopping at the various dressmaking establishments of Paris. It is just possible that the pair may be married in New York. It can be done quietly. It will take place there, but Boni might not like the newspaper attention. He would be sure to receive

The Count de Castellane now appears quite gay and happy. His entire manner has changed in the past few weeks, as if he had his answer from Miss Gerry. He has told tradespeople that his future wife is even richer than his former one, and not nearly so hampered by family. So he has been indulging freely in fur coats and diamond necklaces.

After Anna Gould's second marriage it is impossible to say what an American heiress will not do. In spite of all the tragedies, the charm of a title seems still potent to outweigh all other considerations.

THE most interesting bit of New Year's gossip in the fashionable salons is that Count Boniface de Castellane's star is again in the ascendant; that he is going to marry another American heiress—Miss Mabel Gerry! It is "all arranged," and there is only one "obstacle"—the Pope.

"Boni" professes to be a very good Catholic. He was shocked at Anna Gould's conduct in seeking a divorce from him. He cannot marry again, according to the laws of the Church, while his first wife is living, unless he can obtain an annulment of his first marriage from the ecclesiastical

And Now the Queer Ancient Egyptian Dance.

Will you see the new, strange and curious dance shown in many forms all over the world.

While the ancient Egypt has been exciting London and a little later New York a queer kind of ancient Egyptian dance has been learned in London.

The dancer is a beautiful girl named Miss Alice, an artist of the dance, who has been in the city for some time.

She has been in the city for some time and has been in the city for some time and has been in the city for some time.

Her dance tells a story of love and death. Frequently she comes to a position in which she seems to be dead.

The warm brown tint of her flesh against the dull green of her very slight costume have added the admiration of the lovers of the bizarre.

The ancient Egyptian liked to be reminded of death at their entertainments. At the banquet of Tharakh and of other great men it was customary at the close of the feast to drink a number of a model of one, while some had a number of a model of one.

A young Scotch noblewoman who came to this way to study Egyptology at the university, and she is one of the most accomplished women archaeologists of the time.

She studied so carefully that she found her health would be affected, and so she resorted to dancing as the best physical exercise she knew.

She planned her dance upon the ancient Egyptian drawings which she had studied so deeply, and she became deeply fascinated by the occupation.

This fascination grew upon her so that, in spite of her mental position and her interest in the higher learning, she was irresistibly impelled to go on the stage and give the public the benefit of her ancient Egyptian dance.

a man, too late. The Vampire clutches her victim and she is drinking his life's blood, grotesquely, all the while with greedy satisfaction shown in her eyes.

With all the elaborations described here, the "Vampire" dance has not yet invaded America. But, Judeline from previous stage dances originates in European-like "Vampire" and shall shortly be deluged with "Vampire" dances, wherever the police are sufficiently off their guard.

It is evident that the brutality of the "Vampire" dance symbolism should make its lessons much more effective than those contained in "Vampire" novels and plays.
